

Irrigation Training for Illinois License Renewal

Illinois law requires every irrigation contractor to complete a 4-hour refresher training course each year before license renewal. If you do not complete this 4-hour refresher course annually and file the appropriate paperwork with the Illinois Department of Public Health (IDPH), you are at risk of losing your license and registration to do irrigation work in Illinois.

Based on communications with IDPH, irrigation contractors will still be required to take the four-hour classroom course to renew their licenses in 2021. Although we will be unable to host this education at InVigorateU in 2021, we have made alternative arrangements to safely provide the required training in two other locations.

Important:

- We will follow IDPH guidelines for indoor gatherings, so there will be a limit on how many can participate. We will process registrations as they are received and keep a waiting list if registrations exceed class sizes limits.
- CDC guidelines will be followed and masks will be required at all times.
- If IDPH updates its process and allows us to host the training online, we will transfer your registration to a virtual learning format. We will communicate any changes to you directly, so a current phone number and email with your registration is very important.
- We are communicating regularly with IDPH to stay current on what they are requiring as the pandemic progresses and they determine what contractors will be required to do in order to renew in 2021.
- We are working to balance both your health/safety and what needs to be done to keep you in compliance with the state of Illinois so you can continue to business without interruption.
